Focus on the Scripture

Shortly after I took up a five-year term as elected leader of my religious congregation, I handed the members of my council an article about leaving of-fice gracefully. They objected that we had only begun our ministry of leadership. What was I suggesting? I was convinced then as now that gospel-inspired leadership requires one to hold one's position lightly, ever aware that leadership is a service for a time with an opportunity to create or maintain the conditions for all in the community. Leaders can only call their members to authentic living of their commitment if their own lives are congruent with what they profess.

Today's gospel has particular relevance for all in positions of authority. Appointment or election to such positions is not for the sake of status or self. Neither does specialised knowledge associated with such roles bring with it the right to special privileges. Sadly, both civic and religious leaders can easily develop a sense of entitlement that shifts the exercise of their authority from service to privilege and oppression. That seems to have been the case for certain religious leaders in 1st century Palestine.

Within Second Temple Judaism, Pharisees were the respected teachers and interpreters of the Law of Moses. Some abused their positions and so became the subject of Jesus' scathing and cumulative criticism. They exploited their specialised knowledge to exercise power over the people and create intolerable burdens while at the same time failing to observe their own rules. They sought the adulation of the people through their exaggerated and ostentatious observance of certain religious customs. They are accused of broadening their phylacteries, the little leather boxes containing the words of the Shema (Deuteronomy 6:5) that observant Jews bound to their heads and arms, and of lengthening the tassles attached to their cloaks (in observance of Deuteronomy 22:12). They looked for special treatment, for places and titles of honour, and for public recognition.

Matthew attaches to this condemnation of the scribes and Pharisees several loosely connected sayings of Jesus that link service and humility. Greatness lies, not in the pursuit of power over others, but rather in knowing one's proper place in the scheme of things and so recognising that God is the source of all human power and authority Treading Lightly offers a vision utterly congruent with the gospel-inspired earth-conscious leadership of Pope Francis.

OUR LADY HELP OF CHRISTIANS PARISH NEWS

Holy Land Pilgrimage Sharing. Invitation to parishioners interested in hearing from our parishioners who went on a Holy Land pilgrimage with Fr. Justin recently. All welcome to come and hear of their experiences and see some of their photos on Wednesday November 8th, 2.30pm over a cuppa and light refreshments. Venue: OLHC Meeting Room.

Christmas Day Lunch 2017 The planning for the Christmas Day Lunch is happening, would anyone have time to assist in areas such as bookings, volunteer helper organisation, shopping, correspondence? Requests for assistance for the setup, pre-Christmas meal preparation will be made closer to the time. An invitation to assist with supervising and packing away on Christmas Day is also extended to anyone whose family "may be at the in-laws on Christmas Day", which is how supervisors and volunteers have been able to help out on Christmas day for many years now. If possible, please contact Sandra Dillon 53448442
