Mass at Mercy Place (Part 2)

Last Thursday Father Michael was able to offer Mass at Mercy Place, Some familiar faces were missing and members of the congregation remained seated at least a metre and a half away from one another: people were not easily able to hear their neighbours. Communion was distributed by the priest in a mask. Essentially, it was possible to have Mass for the first time since the middle of March and priest and people were delighted with the opportunity.

Changes in the New Year

The convention is that when a new Parish Priest is appointed to a parish he has the right to appoint new members of parish committees and organisations. The pandemic has changed many things, perhaps including that one, so parishioners' support of Father John Corrigan and Father John Fitzgerald in 2021 and thereafter is particularly encouraged.
